MOVEMBER MADNESS!

FHM GOES FULL RETARD AT OUR ANNUAL FACE-FUR FUNDRAISER!

Looking around the haze at FHM's local, we can't help but smile. Scattered around us is a motley crew of oddballs – we know them well, and they're sporting tashes of the highest calibre: handlebars, horseshoes, pencils, chevrons, even a walrus, though we suspect it may be a stick-on.

We're sniping some quality Mitchell's draught like champions, safe in the knowledge that the profits will end up in the coffers of Cansa, to be used there to fight male cancers – prostate, testicular and penile – those beasts that affect a moer of a lot of okes. We've even taken a pee test.

It's still early and we are already slurring our way through the crowd at The Colony Arms in Craighall Park, a pub so close to home we can literally roll into bed at the end of a bender. It's FHM's Movember Boogie Nights Bash and life's bloody awesome!

The end of November has become synonymous with a massive, charitable piss-up round our parts. It started out in our good mate Russ' back yard three years ago. Since then we've upgraded to The Colony, or The Colon, as we affectionately call it.

It's snor city. They're everywhere and some of us have taken to the Boogie Nights theme. A bit of a strange one, given that the ous in Boogie Nights didn't actually wear clothes for most of the movie. FHM are having a laugh with our old homie Gord, aka Captain Beer, while a dude with an afro and an enormous stick-on moustache belts out some Eighties classic we can't possibly remember now, with two of his engineering colleagues as his backing singers. The sight is simultaneously glorious and slightly disturbing.

Gorgeous FHM ModelBook babe Nicolette Pieters and her equally sexy mate Rimona Singh, in police uniforms, have the desired effect.

Over the course of the night, we give away various awards, auction off some cool shit and crown Miss and Mr Movember 2011. In the end, we manage to raise more than R20 000 for a good cause. Nice. ★
